

Fournier Outlines Campaign Policies

Senator Satto Fournier, mayoralty candidate of the Greater Montreal Rally, will outline the policies and program of his group in an address today to the McGill student body. The meeting will be held in the Walter M. Stewart Room of the Union at 1 pm. Sponsored by the McGill Liberal Club. This talk will be followed tomorrow by the appearance of the incumbent mayor, Jean Drapeau.

Senator Fournier was born in 1908 at East Broughton, and attended the College de Levis and College Ste. Marie before enrolling as a student in the Faculty of Law at McGill. At only 27 years of age, he was elected to parliament for Maisonneuve-Rosemont, which he represented for 18 years, being re-elected in 1940, 1945, and 1949 by overwhelming mamajorities. On June 12, 1953 he was appointed to the Senate, becoming, at 45, the nation's youngest Senator. Mr. Fournier is married, and the father of two daughters, aged 11 and 13.

At the conclusion of his address, a series of questions will be put to the candidate by panel members Marvin Gameroff, B.C.L. 3, Peter Arbour, B.Comm. 3, Bob Valentine, B.Eng. 1, and Seymour Steinman, B.A. 3. Chairman of the event will be Wesley Rapoport, President of the Liberal Club. A question period during which members of the audience will be asked to participate will conclude the session to be held at 1 pm in the Walter M. Stewart room of the Union.

The Greater Montreal Rally which is backing Mr. Fournier for the mayoralty, was founded on June 25th of this year, with Councillor Lucien Croteau being elected its president. The Rally's opposition to the present Drapeau-DesMarais administration stems from the alleged failure of the current executive to implement the advice contained in the report of the Paquette Commission which was set up in 1952 to look into the problems of metropolitan government. The commission, reporting in 1954, suggested a greater Montreal tax roll in order to distribute the financial load among all the municipalities receiving services from the City of Montreal. Councillor Croteau served as technical advisor to this commission which was made up of representatives of all the municipalities as well as the city itself.

Composition of Council

Lined up behind Senator Fournier in the current election are 57 A and B category candidates officially bearing the standard of the Greater Montreal Rally. In addition, the group is supporting the six independent candidates in District 3 (Notre Dame de Grace) under the leadership of former executive committee chairman J.O. Asselin, as well as Councillor Bruno Lepine, running in District 1, category B. Proprietors (category A) elect 3 councillors from each of 11 districts, a total of 33. Tenants (category B) elect the same number. 33 additional councillors are appointed by various civic bodies to create a total of 99 council members.

MEDICAL EXAMINATIONS

The Regulations concerning medical examinations are stated below. This year, however, because the Health Service is moving to new premises, no student will be subject to fine or suspension providing he makes his appointment by November 15th.

New Students

Students in any year who are entering the University for the first time must be medically examined by the 1st of November. Students who fail to do this will be fined $5.00. Failure to be medically examined by the 15th of November will automatically mean suspension from the University.

Other Students

Students who were here last session must present themselves before November 1st, for a chest x-ray examination. Students who fail to comply with this requirement by November 15th, in any academic year, will be subject to a fine of $5.00; and students who fail to comply with it by December 1st will be suspended.

Burlington Trials At Union Today

The Closed Debating Trials for the purpose of selecting a team for the forthcoming Burlington Tournament, are being held today and Friday from 1-4 pm in the Union Clubroom.

The topics for today are: Resolved that (1) morality is outdated. (2) this house believes in Santa Claus. (3) the requirement of membership in a labor organization as a condition of employment be illegal.

Each speaker will be allotted five minutes.

All students who have never participated in an intercollegiate debate are eligible for the Trials, and they may debate either today or Friday on the topics of their choice.

MANITOBA STUDENTS GET NEW RADIO TRANSMITTER

Winnipeg, (CUP) — If the plans and hopes of UMSU radio executives materialize, the 250-watt transmitter and tower recently discarded by radio station CJOB will be made available to the University of Manitoba Students' Union for radio broadcasts.

Get "Cultured Programs"

This would mean that those misinformed CJOB listeners tuning in to 1340 on the dial would hear "cultured programs" from Winnipeg's own University of Manitoba, according to UMSU radio co-chairmen Lindley Abdullah and Garry Rolston.

"The student's union is in favor of the plan," said Rolston, "and the main problems detaining action on our part are the approval of the administration, whether we can get a licence from the Department of Transport and the sanction of the CBC (department of transport regulations call for a minimum of 20 hours broadcasting a week), and whether the executive can finance the additional expenditure". Although Mr. J. O. Blick, president of CJOB, has offered the transmitter as a gift to the University, there would be sizeable expenditures involved in maintenance and in paying qualified technicians required in the operation of the transmitter. "The cost wouldn't be subsidized by advertising since we would not be operating a commercial station," the co-chairmen added.

UMSU radio operations have been confined to campus listening with only a few hours a week going out over several local stations.

Abdullah was quite optimistic, and said that he would have something definite to present after he attends the Western University Radio and Television Fellowship conference to be held this Saturday in Edmonton.

Performs Tonight

Emlyn Williams In Moyse Hall Recital

Emlyn Williams, famed Welsh interpreter of the late Dylan Thomas' poetry, will perform tonight in Moyse Hall to a capacity audience.

Mr. Williams' "solo performance" as he prefers to call it, will be that of Dylan Thomas' "A Boy Growing Up." The only props which he will use, are a wooden chair, a screen and a sheaf of papers.

A Backward Glance

Born in Flintshire, North Wales in 1905, Mr. Williams has served the British Theatre with conspicuous success for twenty-five years. Having been successful in his scholastic endeavours at college, he discovered the theatre, which was later to dominate his life.

His first major success was as author and star of "Night Must Fall", a study of psychopathic murder which has since found many imitators.

Mr. Williams' experience includes motion picture acting, writing and directing in such movies as "The Last Days of Dolwyn", "Ivanhoe", "Major Barbara", and "Captain Dreyfus", soon to be released.

In 1948, Mr. Williams was invested with an honorary LL.D. by the Duke of Edinburgh, with Princess Elizabeth and the Prime Minister officiating.

TEST SCREENS GADGETEERS

A new type of written science test is being devised by the College Entrance Examination Board to find true potential scientists as opposed to gadgeteers.

The plans for the test were disclosed yesterday at a conference of the New York Academy of Sciences and the New York Association of Biology Teachers, held in New York City recently.

Dr. Charles Tanzer, principal of Junior High School 101, and a member of the board's committee preparing the tests, said the primary purpose was to winnow out those who are apt at accumulating facts but lack the ability to apply them.

"There is an urgent feeling," Dr. Tanzer said, "that we are engaged in an international race whose outcome will depend largely upon the discovery and training of those who will be able to guide our future scientific and technological progress."

Dr. Tanzer declared that available examinations which test accumulated information, student projects, laboratory tests and personal evaluation are inadequate.

The written tests now being developed, he noted, will present problems whose solution depends on the use of information that is given.

Professor Callard To Speak On India And World Crisis

Professor Keith Callard of the Department of Economics And Political Science will address the India-Canada Association on "India And The World Crisis" tonight.

This talk, the second of a series, will take place in the auditorium of the Redpath Museum at 8 pm.

A cordial invitation is extended to students and public.

Candidates On Deck

A charming picture of the two mayoralty candidates greeted us from the front pages of the Gazette yesterday. The vigour with which they beamed at each other was disconcerting to the reader who found on the inside pages equally vigorous and vitriolic attacks on the integrity of their two factions. Their smiling friendliness is perhaps the courtesy that society requires but it strikes us as being unnecessary and a bit unseemly. Not that we prefer them to leer grimly at each other or to have the back-to-the-wall expression that typifies the foreign secretary of the United States, but the demands of courtesy can surely be met without an appearance of questionable camaraderie.

These two principals of the latest City Hall production will be speaking at the Union today and tomorrow. The puzzle as to why they agreed to come does not admit of an easy answer. There are very few voters around McGill; votes could hardly be their aim. The innocent might accept the routine plug of this being a public-spirited action; but we have little reason to believe that there is that much concern over student opinion in this province. Then there is the cynical approach — this is good publicity for the candidates, it shows to the public at large that they are broad-minded, willing, and have respect for this famous university. Again, maybe each one came simply because the other one could not be allowed to appear alone and possibly so gain an advantage.

Whatever the reason may be for their coming, the fact is that the gentlemen will be here, and this is a worthwhile programme for which the Liberal Club is to be congratulated. It is possible that in this university atmosphere, away from the compelling demands of "Les citoyens" at an exciting rally, the speakers will not succumb to the temptation to be histrionic and spectacular. We might possibly get clear informative statements of their platforms, and question time could be analytical and revealing. The latter, of course, demands a sober approach by the attending students.

Whatever form these forums take they are bound to be worthwhile attending. Don't miss the show.

Decrees, The Birds And The Bees

Men of McGill, we have been left in the cold again. That treasure-trove of feminine delectables, Royal Victoria College, has made another anti-social decree; it will be a cold winter.

The facts are these; between the inner confines of RVC and the freedom of Montreal's streets there is a wee little room — actually just an area with doors on both sides of it — and in this cubicle are two very efficient radiators. There are four corners to the place, and on any cold night, one is very likely to find 8 earnest students, approximately half of them males, engaged in delicate investigation of the latest theories of psychological and physiological motivation. It's warm in that place, and no one wearing a winter coat can stay very long in it, and as a result there is a quick turnover in personnel.

But now this has all been changed. It has been decreed that after midnight the front portal of RVC is to be locked, and no resident is to be allowed to enter if there is a male attached to her. No longer will she be able to manoeuvre her date into a fond goodnight while luxuriating in the heat of the radiator. No such chance, no such luxury. No longer will the requisite consummation of North America's dating patterns take place in a civilized atmosphere; the benefits of modern building construction are not for those denizens of the romantic deep who enjoy participating in a bit of congenial and healthy goodnight sport.

They will be forced, now, to accomplish what must be accomplished in the frigid air that every winter circulates around RVC. Perhaps it was thought that the cold would discourage residents from getting their due from the men they date, but we feel that this was a premature and incorrect supposition. We submit that cold or no cold, men will still woo maids and maids will still allow themselves to be wooed. They may be forced to stand outside of RVC in winter's blasts, but doubtless they will find ways of keeping warm.

Student Life In The USSR

From The Student Mirror

A report on the impressions gained by a delegation of Swedish students during its visit to the Soviet Union was published recently by the National Union of Swedish Students (SFS). The report deals primarily with the social conditions under which the Soviet students have to live to-day, and partly also with student life in general. The most essential parts of the report are comprised in this article.

The scholarships granted to the Soviet student are fixed so as to enable him to meet the most elementary expenses for food, clothing and the remaining costs of study. However, the amount of the subventions by the state varies greatly according to the year of study of the individual student, the college attended and the results obtained in the intermediate examinations. The student's social background and financial status have no influence on the granting of the scholarship. According to the statements by various offices to which inquiries were addressed by the Swedish students' delegation during their stay in Russia, scholarships are granted to about 90 percent of all Soviet students. A figure of 80 to 82 percent was furnished by the Ministry of University and Educational Affairs.

Generous Scholarships

The amounts paid monthly to the individual Soviet student range from 250 to 600 rubles. In the case of certain branches of study (as, for instance, underground construction engineers) the amount of the scholarship is higher. This amount is fixed on the basis of the results of the intermediate examinations and of the number of semesters completed by the student. However, the scanty data furnished to the Swedish students delegation did not enable it to form a clear idea of the distribution scheme. It would seem that the amount of the scholarship is increased by about 25 percent each year. Accordingly, a student who may figure on a scholarship of about 250 rubles in his first year of study will receive about 500 rubles in his fourth year of study in which he is generally expected to complete his studies. Students who pass their intermediate examinations with particularly good results may receive the maximum scholarship rate already during their first years of study.

Intermediate examinations are held twice a year. As a rule, a student failing to pass his intermediate examination loses his right to the scholarship until the next examination. This explains the fact that approximately 20 percent of the Soviet students receive no scholarships. However, these regulations are not rigidly applied. If a student fails to pass his intermediate examination for "objective reasons" (illness, for example) the rector of the university has the possibility to make available money from a special fund provided for such cases. According to the available data the number of students failing to complete their studies is extremely low, about one percent.

For extremely gifted students there are special study funds, most of which are named after renowned scientists (Lomonosov, Mayakovsky, Pushkin). Scholarships paid from these funds amount to about 700 rubles per month. The highest scholarship in the amount of 800 rubles per month is the Stalin scholarship.

Six months prior to the completion of his studies, the student may explain his wishes concerning his future field and place of work to a commission consisting of representatives of the various ministries, industries and factories. The Swedish visitors were told that the students enjoy complete freedom in their choice of the place of work and that most of them go to places where they are most urgently needed at the time. However, the young university graduate must bind himself to remain at the place of work to which he assigned for at least three years.

No Student Unions

There are no Western style student organizations or student self-administration in the Soviet Union. Both the students and the body of university teachers are affiliated with the local trade unions. There is a general meeting of students by which a students' council (studentskij soviet) is elected which, being no technical community of interests, sees to it that "order and discipline" is maintained. Within the university trade union there is a committee of student representatives dealing primarily with questions pertaining to the teaching and the curriculum. As a rule, the Soviet student is not concerned with social problems and other general questions pertaining to the student body. The opinion prevails that the state takes care of whatever is necessary and that, hence, there are no social problems for the students.

Science Emphasis

The great importance attached in the Soviet Union to the natural sciences becomes evident already on the high school level and is revealed further by a percentage breakdown of the students by the various faculties.

400,000 Soviet students are presently engaged in humanistic studies, while 1,460,000 chose the study branches of natural sciences and engineering. Seventy-five percent of all students completing their studies by taking a doctor's degree are natural scientists and technicians. As regards the extraordinarily high number of students, it should be noted that in the Soviet Union everybody who acquires some special education in addition to his school education of ten years calls himself a student. Thus the term student in the Soviet Union comprises all those who attend higher commercial schools, technical schools or similar institutions.

Blond Bombshell May Be Champion For Charities

Denise Darcel, France's contribution to the international gallery of bombshells, may appear at the cabaret-style dance which will close the Combined Charities Campaign at McGill on Friday, November 9.

Many of the top acts in local show business will be on hand to provide the entertainment for the affair, while Paul Jones' band will play music for dancing throughout the evening. The dance will take place in the Union Ballroom. Audrey Eccles and her committee hope to have the surroundings changed out of all recognition — the room will be decorated in the dim, swaying style of a ship-board café.

The entertainment, slanted primarily to the collegiate taste, will be designed to offer a clean but lively show, while saving the students the trouble — and expense — of making the rounds. The "dive" atmosphere, currently so popular around McGill, will pervade the scene, although the seedier aspects of the local "dive" circuit will be eliminated.

Alms At Ten Thousand Dollars

With the tables and decorations in place, it is hoped that at least two hundred couples can be accommodated. Proceeds from the evening will go to the McGill Combined Charities Campaign, which hopes to raise ten thousand dollars this year. The money will be divided among the World University Service and the three principal charities in the city.

The campaign will be opened this year on Monday, November 4. Instead of the customary penny mile, a McGill crest will be painted on the campus just below the Founder's Tomb. This will be filled in with pennies and silver.

Monday evening, a movie will be shown in Moyse Hall. The name of the film has not yet been decided upon.

Prior to this, the Combined Charities Committee will sponsor a series of seven carnival booths at the Toronto Dance, on Saturday, Nov. 2nd.

They will feature games of chance and will be distributed around the gym.

GRADUATE PHOTOS

All students in the graduating years of Medicine, Dentistry, and Commerce must have their Annual photos taken by Oct. 31. All students in the graduating years of Divinity, Architecture, and Law must have their photos taken by Nov. 5. Photos are taken at the studio of Geraldine Carpenter, 1487 Bishop St. Students may go any time during the day, no appointment is necessary. There is a charge of $3.50 a sitting. The student receives one 5" x 7" photo, the Annual receives one photo.

Fall Fig Leaf

The Fig Leaf, McGill's humour magazine, is beginning to shape up into what looks like one of the best issues ever.

Clandestine meetings of McGill's satirists have been held in the "wee sma's" amidst the rush of the Fall season.

The editors would like to point out, however, that this is a campus humour magazine and therefore open to contributions from the whole student body. We have a deadline of November 7th, so anybody who would like to write, or who has already started to write humorous, satirical, "outsider" articles or anecdotes should get in touch with Stan Fisher, PL. 1674 today. He is looking forward to hearing from those with previously hidden talents.

Radio Workshop To Tour CFCF

The first regular meeting for the members of the McGill Radio Workshop will get underway this evening at 7:30 at radio station CFCF Cote des Neiges Studio A.

Members will be introduced to the staff of CFCF and will be taken on a tour of the studios, where they will have a first hand opportunity of seeing "live-broadcasting."

Future Programme

During subsequent weeks Workshop members will become acquainted with the intricate operations of commercial radio. In addition to this members receive training and instruction in announcing, operating and writing from such qualified men as Gord Sinclair, Jerry Herbert and Steve Woodman. Students who are interested in joining the Radio Workshop but who have not had the opportunity of signing up will have a chance to do so this evening.

Dance Instruction To Begin Oct. 30

It has just been announced that the Union-sponsored dance instruction for college students is scheduled for Oct. 31st. Enrollment for this year is under way and the instructors urge prospective participants to send in their registration form as soon as possible.

Each year an average of 300 students participate. The program is varied to suit every taste and the instruction has been excellent in the past. Among the selected professional dance instructors will be Mr. Steve Hazard, well-known Montreal teacher and exhibition dancer.

Gerard Pelletier Speaks Here Today

Mr. Gerard Pelletier, public relations director of the Canadian Catholic Conference of Labour, will speak on "Organized Labour And Political Action" today. This address will be held in the Walter M. Stewart Room of the union at 5 pm.

He will discuss the nature of the relationship of organized labour to politics in general, considering the responsibilities the unions should have and the political, economic, and social consequences of such political involvement.

the problem of labour participation in political action then came to the fore.

Public Welcome

The meeting is under the sponsorship of the McGill Socialist Society, a non-political club whose purpose it is to enhance the students' awareness of important political, economic, and social problems through lectures, debates, and discussions. Members of the faculty, students and their friends are invited to attend and to take part in the discussion following the lecture.

Past Experience

Mr. Pelletier has been active in the labour movements for several years. He was director of the CCCL newspaper Le Travail before acquiring his present position, and has contributed articles to the journal Cite Libre. In addition he has had active experience in many major labour activities, including the recent dispute at Murdochville. The latter is of particular relevance, since

Blues Take Track Title As Redmen Run Second

University of Toronto Blues ran away with the Guthrie trophy for intercollegiate track and field championship as they took a 20 point margin over McGill, the second best, for a grand total of 57 points. Western was third with 36 points, Queens followed with 20 and McMaster held the cellar with 11.

In a further breakdown, Varsity scored 6 first places while McGill and Western picked up three each leaving two for Queens. Two of the Blues firsts were earned by Stullac in the shot put and discus throw contests. Stullac went for a total of 13 points, enough to win him the Hec Phillips trophy for the outstanding senior field and trackster. Next to him was Bob McFarlane of Western who compiled a total of 10 points by placing first in the 220 yd. and 100 yd. dashes.

McGill's firsts were picked up by John Moule in the 880 yd. dash with a time of 2:00.7, John Whalen pole vaulting to 12' 3 3/4" and Parsons who broadjumped 19' 6 3/4". John Whalen's pole vault tied the intercollegiate record set by Toronto several years ago and was the only record tie of the meet. No new records were set.

John Moule, a med student at McGill who won the mile event wearing the McMasters colors last year, ran 4.8 seconds off the record in his 880 yd. dash win.

Also placing for the Red and White were Naugher who placed second in the discus throw and the highjump, Southerland who took a second in the shot put and Ross taking the same place in the 220 yd. dash. Running third were Roland in the 120 yd. high hurdles and McCleod in the high jump. The relay team also took a third place in the mile relay.

In the intermediate meet, O.A.C. placed first with 53 points. Claremont of O.A.C. was the top man in this division while Falandean of Assumption was next.

The Guthrie trophy will be leaving from our own trophy room where it adorned our walls for the past year by reason of an intercollegiate championship win last year.

A Band Plays On

by Mel Sher

"Ladies and Gentlemen—the McGill Redmen band". This rings a familiar bell to intercollegiate football fans in all cities of the circuit and serves to introduce the red-coated, plume-incap members of our football marching aggregation.

This group was started about ten years ago by a bunch of fellows who wanted to put some music and spirit on the field. They managed to hit the SEC for enough money to get themselves red capes, white pants and red flat caps. The band just came onto the field to provide half-time and quarter time music. Funds were rather short, so the band didn't get to do any travelling with the team.

Finally, on Nov. 5, 1949 the McGill band took their first trip to Toronto. They had a 30 piece combination and created an instantaneous impression.

Although the Daily of '49 reports that the band had received the funds to travel through students' donations, a graduate member of the band remembers standing on the steps of the Arts building with a cup in his hands to collect these contributions.

As time went on and the band grew bigger and more experienced, routines were worked out and the new uniforms of a red jacket, white pants, a white hat with a red M and plume, and cross-belts became the symbol of a bandsman. This year the uniform has been modified by the addition of yellow to the jacket, the removal of the cross-belts and the change of style of hats. But the plumes still remain.

The 1957 edition consists of a 36 piece band with Alec Ramsay as president and Morley Calvert doubling as band master and routine creator.

Varsity's Maik Threatens to Quit

Toronto (CUP) Oct. 17 — Peter Maik, veteran Varsity football player threatened to quit the game after a "cruel and unwarranted" attack on him by a Toronto newspaper.

Maik said that the charge "could create enough disturbance to make me quit football altogether." The article quotes him as saying, "I feel I'll need it (a masters degree) for business, but football was the big reason I wanted to return."

Outlining Maik's three year career in Varsity ball, the paper emphasized an incident during a playoff game against Western in 1955. Murray Henderson got behind Maik with seconds left to play and grabbed a touchdown pass from Don Getty. "That I didn't mind," said Maik, "but what burns me is the quote which says I came back to play football. Why Dalt (coach White) had to convince me to play ball again! Football was definitely going to play second fiddle." Continuing his argument, Maik said, "Playing football this year has cost me $500. Why, I could have made over $2,000 just by working out with Edmonton for a couple of months. Right now, I haven't got a cent in my pocket. Why would I want to lose $500 just to play football when I could have earned enough to cover all my expenses this year?"

The only correct statement in the paper, according to Maik, was the remark he made to Edmonton Eskimo Coach, Pop Ivy, saying that before joining the Eskie squad, he must prove to himself that he can play college ball.

When asked to comment on the 1953 episode, Peter answered, "I didn't mind the retelling of that deal, but it certainly wasn't a nightmare as the story says. Henderson didn't pull away from me all afternoon. I only covered him twice through the whole game. Once when he flanked wide for a pass and once for the touchdown.

The hard hitting placement kicker concluded by saying that the important thing right now was furthering his education. "That's why I turned down Edmonton's offer. Dalt had to talk to me four or five times before I was convinced to turn out for football — and I wasn't sorry I did until this came along."
